

In his rather too sane attack
on Shakespeare M. Georges Pellissier has spoken of the French taste {...}

De minimis curat. unlike the practiced.

[...] Kaiser works - Surely not a s(c)eptic, when his quest starts - after
"pray" for "Bullets"

"The German People" - "Damned with feigned preys"

In a muddle - v. boat sounds chill.

Yet as all ~~thing~~ absolute judgments are false because absolute, and all thoughts because not things.

The great artist also shall survive for the hazards of the scorns the friends of the act of the Gods.

~~God~~
