The late nineteenth century has everywhere been praised and acknowledged as the true era of enlightenment and invention progress. Discoveries and inventions have been made, of the most startling and novel ~~description~~ nature, and if we ~~are~~ do not yet allow a personally acquainted with infinity and ~~have~~ <sup>do</sup> no minute description of the other world, it is because we are ~~deaf~~ <sup>deaf</sup> ~~sa~~ dead to the world of thought the whole plan of the created and the uncreated having been very minutely explained by numerous American theosophists, the entire supernatural workings ~~of~~ on the ~~w~~ earth being ~~is~~ subjected to a most special and deep consideration. We have electric light and typewriters, we have adding, subtracting and multiplying machines {...}

Telepathic machines.
