

Relation between the phrenological organs and the features:

It is probable, almost logical, that the lower instincts and faculties be located, physiognomically, in the jaw, mouth, breadth of nose, cheeks - in fine, in all features which we find in the negro.

Those which are due to the higher development of man's nature are perforce situated:

- In the height of the nose.
- In the prominence of the chin.
- In the thinness of the nose.
- In the thinness of the lips.
- In the smallness of the mouth.
- In the small depth of the chin
- In the {...}
