Dreams, idle dreams! yet happy who can have
Such things existence things to substitute!
Who sums not life into a flowering grave
Nor looks his good in fame & in repute.
Happy so firm to dream & to believe
That on the soil of earth good can
Nor knows that joys as pains can make to <sup>take root</sup>
And Venus' self is turned a prostitute. <sup>grieve</sup>

Dreams, idle dreams! Yet happy who can have
Such things existence things to substitute!
Who sums not life into a flowering grave
Nor looks his good in fame and in repute.
Happy so firm to dream and to believe
That on the soil of earth good can take root
Nor knows that joys as pains can make to grieve
And Venus' self is turned <sup>/was born\</sup> a prostitute.

Oh miserable slaves that no revolt
Can kindle or impel to my use, Always
Slaves that we are, that cannot will
With mind <sup>nor choose</sup> + conscience under lock +
Slave that no <sup>bolt</sup> can redeem
From this eternal tyranny divine
Freemen + freedmen that a drop of wine
Can make to sleep or injure in a dream!
So wholly slaves, so miserably slaves!

Oh miserable slaves that no revolt
Can kindle or impel to my use,
Slaves that we are, that cannot will nor choose
With mind and conscience under lock and bolt.
Slaves that no {...} can redeem
From this eternal tyranny divine
Freemen and freedmen that a drop of wine
Can make to sleep or injure in a dream!
So wholly slaves, so miserably slaves!
